LONG BEACH, Calif. — October 8, 2007— KACO hosted some of their closest clients and some interested solar professionals aboard an elegant yacht in the Long Beach harbor. This sunset cruise offered a chance to mingle and relax amongst the many events at the Solar Power show. "I am very happy that the cruise turned out to be such a success, it is a great way to thank our existing customers and give our future customers a chance to get to know us." says CEO Peter Flachsmann about the KACO Solar Cruise.

Along with great food and drinks the KACO team offered up a few great free prizes; the highlight of which is a trip for two to beautiful Neckarsulm, Germany. KACO has put its money where its mouth is and will send Carlos Radij, of SPG Solar, plus a guest to tour the newest of the three KACO factories. The company is excited to showcase its technologically advanced manufacturing facility and to prove to the United States market that KACO is serious about quality.

KACO failure rates are less than 1% because of their innovative climate chamber stress testing method. Each inverter shipped to the US is run for four hours under full load before being boxed and shipped to the storage facility in Northern California.

KACO is serious about quality and they have proven this commitment by awarding Carlos this fantastic gift. "I was very excited to see Carlos win the trip to Germany. As a young engineer this trip will no doubt be an opportunity for him to experience first hand a state of the art manufacturing facility in the booming German market." says CEO Peter Flachsmann.
